Jail Alternative & Work Release

Alternatives to jail for those facing legal consequences

Substance abuse often has consequences.

Jail is a very real potential consequence for those charged with DUI and other substance-related offenses. If there isn't any real way your lawyer can "get you off", she or he will often tell you that there are ways to mitigate sentencing in hopes to avoid jail. They will also tell you that treatment is the only substantive way to convince a judge that jail may not be needed. Treatment often offers alternatives to jail for those facing legal consequences due to substance related offenses.

State of Maryland v. Heroin

Sometimes we have to face reality, perform zero-based reviews, and boldly challenge the status quo with honest scrutiny and a willingness to try different things. Such is the case with Maryland's runaway heroin issue.

What We Offer Clients

Right Turn-IMPACT works closely with legal professionals including attorneys, judges, prosecutors, probation agents and case workers. We design and implement effective recovery programs and treatment alternatives. We also reach beyond the legal system providing excellent programs for addicts and alcoholics seeking recovery. Here are our affordable options:

- 28 Day Residential Recovery and Treatment
 - 28 Day Residential Work Release
 - Weekend Intervention Program
 - Mid-Week Intervention Program
 - Treatment Assessment Protocol Assessments (TAP)
 - Convenient Locations for Outpatient / Aftercare:
